PRAYING WITH GAUDÍ FROM THE SAGRADA FAMÍLIA

David Jou

Antoni Gaudí was deeply Christian—humbly so, imaginatively so—and Jesus Christ became his guiding reference, especially in the last years of his life. The Sagrada Família, in all its overflowing richness of forms and symbols, expresses that devotion without pause or limit. The basilica is, in its very structure, a vast prayer—offered to God, and inviting each of us to rediscover God in stone, in color, in light.

AUTHOR

David Jou

David Jou (Sitges, 1953) is a physicist, poet and essayist. Professor of Physics at the Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona, he is an author of an internationally renowned research on non-equilibrium thermodynamics. He has published a wide poetical work on scientific and religious themes. His essays combine science, humanities and religion. He has been a member of the board of the Fundació Joan Maragall (Cristianisme i cultura) for some thirty years.

COMERCIAL INTEREST

This book invites us to contemplate the Sagrada Família not only for its spectacular aesthetic uniqueness and its wealth of cultural and spiritual meanings, but also as a place of prayer. It does so through thirty poems that celebrate, meditate and pray, intertwining intimately with the structure and energy of this unique building.
